Office Action Summary	Application No. 10/644,930	Applicant(s) FOX, MARA
	Examiner Adetokunbo O. Torimiro	Art Unit 3714

-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

the specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Re claim 5: the limitation, "the second person" in line 3 lacks clear antecedent basis.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Guess the Flavor (Kissing Games).

Re claims 1 and 5: Guess the Flavor discloses a novelty kit for producing an oral sensation during deep kissing, the novelty kit comprising a first substance / various candy to be placed on the tongue of a first person; and instructions / How to play for use of the first substance with a second person; additionally comprising a second substance / food items and wherein the instructions include directions for the use of the first substance and the second substance by the first person and the second person (see page 1, Things you'll need and How to play). It is apparent to Examiner that first or second substance could be any various candy and/or food item, or different flavors of the same candy and/or food item as long as it is something edible. It is inherent for there to be a kit in order to have the kissing game as described in Guess the Flavor.

Re claims 2 and 6: Guess the Flavor teaches wherein the first substance has an identifiable taste; wherein the second substance has a different identifiable taste than the taste of the first substance (see Guess the Flavor). It is inherent to the Examiner that to guess the flavor of substances, there has to be identifiable taste associated with the substance.

Re claims 9-12 and 19-22: Guess the Flavor teaches wherein the instructions direct the first person on placement on the tongue of the first substance prior to the first and second person engaging in deep kissing; wherein the instructions direct the first and second persons on placement on their respective tongues of the first and second substances prior to the first and second person engaging in deep kissing; wherein the instructions direct the first and second persons on the selection of tastes of the first and second substances; herein the instructions identify moods created by the selected tastes and wherein the instructions direct the first and second persons on the selection of the first and second substances to create a selected mood (see How to play).

Art Unit: 3714

Re claim 13: Guess the Flavor teaches a method for producing an oral sensation during deep kissing, the method comprising: placing a first substance having an identifiable taste on the tongue of a first person (see Guess the Flavor); and instructing the first person on use of the first substance with a second person (see How to play). It is inherent to the Examiner that to guess the flavor of substances, there has to be identifiable taste associated with the substance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 3,4,7,8,14,15,17, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guess the Flavor (Kissing Games) in view of AAPA (Applicants Admitted Prior Art).

Re claims 3,4,7, and 8: Guess the flavor teaches the novelty kit containing first substance and instructions.

However, Guess the flavor does not teach the kit wherein the first substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the first substance; where the solute is water based; wherein the second substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the second substance; where the solute is water based.

AAPA teaches the kit wherein the first substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the first substance; where the solute is water based; wherein the second substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the second substance; where the solute is water based (see background of the Invention).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the combination of the AAPA and Guess the Flavor game so has to have substances soluble in water and hence soluble in the mouth of the player.

Re claim 14,15,17, and 18: Guess the Flavor teaches the method for producing an oral sensation.

However, Guess the Flavor does not teach the method wherein the first substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the first substance; where the solute is water based; wherein the second substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the second substance; where the solute is water based.

AAPA teaches the method wherein the first substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the first substance; where the solute is water based; wherein the second substance is in the form of a solute containing an extract of the second substance; where the solute is water based (see background of the Invention).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the combination of the AAPA and Guess the Flavor game so has to have substances soluble in water and hence soluble in the mouth of the player.
